

Southwest Digs Out Of Snow

Worst Storm In 30 Years Hits El Paso

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Parts of the Southwest began digging out of its first big snowstorm of the season today. It was labeled as the worst in 30 years at El Paso, Tex.

The storm was responsible for the death of one man in New Mexico and five in Texas.

Air and auto travel were disrupted, schools were closed, several small towns were isolated and deer hunters were stranded by the storm, which dumped as much as 30 inches of snow in some places.

Airports were closed at Santa Fe and Clovis, N.M., stranding a number of travelers.

Eastern New Mexico and west Texas were the hardest hit areas. Thirty inches fell at Ruidoso in southeastern New Mexico. A drizzling rain which turned to ice covered most of the west Texas plains.

El Paso schools and Texas Western College were closed after the city was hit by seven inches of snow which piled up in drifts four and five feet deep. At least eight New Mexico school systems—Corona, Carrizozo, Capitan, Hondo, Ruidoso, Elida, Causey and Truth or Consequences—also closed.

New Mexico state police closed two roads Tuesday night, isolating Carrizozo. They reopened one which permitted travel into Truth or Consequences, isolated Tuesday.

At least 213 deer hunters were located in mountain hunting areas. Some 150 hunters gathered at the Dunkin Community's general store, where they were reached by units from the state police and National Guard.

Groups of 31, 9 and 23 hunters were brought out of the Lincoln National Forest near Capitan. They had been marooned overnight in the high country.

The New Mexico Game Department said other hunters were stranded.

New Outbreak Of Civil War In AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rival industrial and craft union camps in the AFL-CIO traded broadsides today in a fresh outbreak of organized labor's civil war.

Walter Reuther, Auto Workers Union president and commander of the industrial union forces, charged that the six-year old AFL-CIO has united forces in name only because, he said, the federation has failed to solve traditional union rivalries. He blamed the craft unions for the impasse.

C. J. (Neal) Haggerty, leader of the crafts as president of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades, retorted that the industrial unions are ignoring agreed-upon disputes settlement machinery "making us wonder what an agreement with them is worth."

"Mr. Reuther," said Haggerty, "apparently thinks his best defense is an all-out offense."

The basis for the feuding is the same job rights controversy that split the old AFL into the rival AFL and CIO organizations in 1955. Since the AFL-CIO merger was agreed upon in 1955 there have been fruitless efforts to work out a binding arbitration arrangement for interunion disputes.

Deploing this, Reuther said in a report prepared for the annual convention of the Industrial Union Department he heads that there must be some type of non-aggression pact for the AFL-CIO to survive. The convention opens Thursday and runs through Friday.

Reuther said an agreement reached at the AFL-CIO convention at San Francisco two years ago to arbitrate internal disputes has never been implemented.

"Interunion disputes have not abated," he said. "They have increased. Jurisdictional conflicts persist. AFL-CIO unions still boycott the products of other AFL-CIO unions."

"Affiliates still raid each other. One department of the federation continues to compete organizationally against affiliated unions. And unethical organizational literature still provides comfort for the antiunion employer."

At School Board Meeting

Door Pivots And Hinges Time Consuming Subjects

About two hours of the regular Sedalia Board of Education meeting Tuesday night was taken up by a prolonged discussion on the relative merits of door pivots and hinges for new doors being installed in Sedalia public schools.

The discussion was built around plastic pivots versus metal pivots, and ended only after board president Charles W. Hurtt hotly stated, "I am getting tired of Sedalia schools being used for experiments. Let's use tried and true metal and stop this useless argument."

With the exception of some plastic pivots already installed, the new doors will swing through-out the coming years on metal pivots.

In other action the board agreed to direct the board secretary to help work out a schedule whereby the Baptist Churches in this area may use the public school gymnasiums for basketball practice and tournament play.

A considerable amount of time was taken up in discussions on change orders for the new improvements. These included some changes in heating, sidewalks, paint for a boiler room floor, and the tinting of windows. The board voted to tint the windows in the Smith-Cotton addition. It was brought out that some additional equipment will be needed as soon as the classroom addition at Smith-Cotton is completed.

It was also brought out that the board will have to pay a bill of $86.23 for a glass door broken out by vandals at Jefferson School, as glass is not covered in the insurance carried when the glass was broken.

Several persons involved in the construction of the classroom addition at Smith-Cotton were present and discussed the upcoming completion of the addition. The building was offered for inspection last Friday, but there were some flaws in the plastering and painting.

The contractors agreed to correct the flaws by Friday, when the addition will be re-inspected. Superintendent Thomas J. Norris said the addition would probably be accepted Friday.

Norris explained the new immunization laws to the board. The board agreed to send Ed Kehde to the State School Boards Association meeting in Columbia in December.

Norris brought up an unusual situation whereby taxpayers in the area northeast of Sedalia, around North Heard but just outside the city limits, were paying taxes in the Sunnyside School District this year.

The situation was brought to light soon after the tax statements were mailed out early this month. One lady called Norris and said she has been paying taxes in the Sedalia School District for many years, her children attended

Fisher to Stay Until Successor Can Be Named

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Leo A. Fisher, 32, St. Louis, has resigned as chairman of the Highway Commission but has agreed to Gov. John M. Dalton's request that he stay on until a successor can be appointed.

He first asked that his resignation become effective immediately, but consented to remain after the governor praised his loyal and devoted service on the commission.

Fisher told newsmen Tuesday Dalton did not ask him to resign. He said the governor told him his term would expire Dec. 1 although Fisher thought his term ran for six years when former Gov. James T. Blair appointed him in March, 1957.

Fisher, who has extensive business interests, formerly owned a cotton plantation near Parma.

The Board of Education of Green Ridge R-8 School District has completed negotiations for the construction of a new high school and grade school building.

The Bonnot Construction Co., Eldon, the low bidder for the job, was awarded the contract. J. C. Bonnot, construction foreman, said work on the new building would start within the next two weeks. Equipment and materials should arrive in Green Ridge some time next week.

The contract figure was set at $285,094.

Renewed Demands By Reds

Troika Type Arms Talks Is Only Way

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

— The Soviet Union renewed its demands today that any new East-West disarmament negotiations must be organized on the troika principle—with equal numbers of Western, Communist and nonaligned countries taking part.

The United States and the Soviet Union agreed today that disarmament negotiations should be resumed at the earliest possible moment, but they clashed anew over the composition of the negotiating body.

The demands were advanced by Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin as he opened a comprehensive U.N. disarmament debate in the General Assembly's main political committee. The Western powers have refused to accept the troika concept.

Zorin laid before the 103-nation committee once more the disarmament proposals long advanced by Soviet Premier Khrushchev and pressed for an immediate treaty providing for complete disarmament within four years or some other agreed period.

"It is necessary to destroy all weapons," he asserted. "No other effective disarmament plan can exist in present circumstances."

Zorin opened his speech with a sharp attack on the Western powers, charging they were falling more and more under the influence of German militarists and as a result were driving the world in the direction of a nuclear war.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was reported ready to press for quick U.N. action to get the disrupted East-West talks started again. He was understood, however, to be standing firm against accepting any troika arrangement.

The Soviets have been insisting upon this extension of the troika principle to the disarmament negotiations. The Western powers have refused to give equal representation to the nonaligned countries.

More Money To Farmers At Markets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Missouri farmers received more cash from their marketings in the first nine months of this year than for the corresponding period of 1960, the Agriculture Department reports.

The increase was due to receipts for livestock and livestock products. Crops yielded less than in the 1960 period.

The report showed cash receipts from the farm marketings in the state totaled $726,272,000 for the January - September period this year compared with $711,458,000 a year earlier.

Receipts from livestock and livestock products increased from $220,495,000 to $243,984,000 but those from crop marketings fell from $190,963,000 to $182,288,000.

During September the cash receipts from marketings dropped from $89,964,000 for 1960 to $89,088,000 for the period this year, due to the decrease in the amount received from crop marketings. These fell from $34,196,000 to $32,330,000. But the September cash receipts from marketings of livestock and its products rose from $63,818,000 in September last year to $65,472,000 for that month this year.

Carried Living Matter

Radiation Test Shot A Failure

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—A 62-foot rocket carrying bits of living matter toward the earth's dangerous radiation belt came apart in the air today and the first stage fell on land near the coast.

The Navy said the impact area was seven miles south of the launch pad, about a half mile inland from a Coast Guard station. There was no damage to property.

The other three stages and a capsule containing 38 experiments apparently fell in the sea, but their path was hidden by fog. The capsule was crammed with bits of living matter including fresh-drawn human blood.

The 88-pound package also included a device designed to capture and bring back to earth for the first time tiny bits of space dust known as micrometeoroids.

Plans called for the capsule, code-named BIOS—for Biological Investigations of Space—to shoot 1.165 miles into space and then parachute into the ocean 1,300 miles west of here.

U.S. space agency scientists expected the experiment to tell them how badly space radiation can damage living cells, and

Duval-Dalton Row Blame Is Placed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Gov. John M. Dalton blamed administrative failures today for his conflict with Dr. Addison M. Duval, who resigned Tuesday as director of mental diseases.

Dalton said he thought the resignation was a good thing and expressed hope a new director would be found to run the mental health program on a business-like basis.

The governor said he hoped the Mental Health Commission could find a top flight psychiatrist for the director's job, then hire a businessman to handle the administrative end. Under this system he predicted the 10-year improvement program developed during Duval's term could be accelerated.

Dalton held a news conference to comment on Duval's resignation, which the doctor blamed on a studied effort by the governor to get his job.

The governor said he had nothing personal against Duval and insisted politics was not involved in the long standing feud. He said he had tried repeatedly to get Duval to correct what he called administrative defects, but nothing was done.

Asked what kind of defects he meant, the governor said he was talking about "people on the payroll who were not working." He said some came into the hospitals only occasionally but were on the payroll. He did not name them.

South Korea Guaranteed US Support

Armed Forces Would Meet New Attack on Nation

WASHINGTON (AP)—South Korea's Gen. Chung Hee Park has President Kennedy's promise of U.S. aid "including the use of armed forces if there is a renewal of armed attack."

Kennedy assured Park that the United States would continue to extend all possible economic aid and cooperation for the further development of the nation for which U.S. troops fought a decade ago.

The pledge was also official approval for Park's military regime, which overthrew the U.S.-supported government six months ago.

The approval came Tuesday in a joint communique after Kennedy and Park held two meetings lasting about three hours.

The 44-year-old Korean leader was to confer today with three of Kennedy's Cabinet members—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges.

The smiling Korean accomplished a double goal in his talks with Kennedy.

For the first time the President publicly declared "gratification at the many indications of progress" being made by Park's junta after it seized power last May 16 and ousted an elected government.

In addition, Kennedy pledged the U.S. government to "extend all possible economic aid and cooperation to the Republic of Korea in order to further long-range economic development."

2,000 Troops In Defiance Of Authority

Serious Disorders In Albertville, North of Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) Antoine Gizenga, the leftist heir of former Premier Patrice Lumumba, has emerged into open and forceful defiance of the United Nations and the central Congo government, diplomatic informants said today.

Acting Secretary-General U Thant today authorized the U. N. force in the Congo to take "every measure possible" to restore order in Albertville and Kindu, two Congo towns where mutiny has erupted.

Gizenga, said the sources, is directing the mutiny of more than 2,000 Congolese troops against the central government authority in Kindu, the Kivu provincial town north of the secessionist province of Katanga.

Other mutineers were reported to have created serious disorders in the north Katanga city of Albertville.

A U.N. spokesman said it intends to put down lawlessness in the two towns by force if necessary.

Diplomatic sources said the left-wing politician set himself up in Kindu last Saturday, leaving his former stronghold at Stanleyville in Oriental Province to onetime allies who now adhere to the Leopoldville government.

Gizenga, who once accepted the post of vice premier in Premier Cyrille Adoula's central government here, made his defiance open and apparently final Tuesday when he forced two of his former allies, Gen. Victor Lundula and Christophe Gbenye, out of Kindu in fear of their lives.

Mutinous soldiers at Kindu refused to hand over 13 Italian airmen they had arrested and beaten Saturday.

Lundula and Gbenye had gone to Kindu to get the Italians freed. "The situation continues to cause grave concern," the U.N. spokesman said.

"From the north Katanga town of Albertville, the United Nations reported about 100 Congolese troops entered the city and within seven hours Tuesday created an "impossible" situation.

Judge Orders Transit Men Back to Jobs

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A temporary order, in effect ordering striking employees of the Kansas City Transit Co. back to work, was issued today by Circuit Judge J. Donald Murphy.

He acted on a petition filed by Gordon Siddens, an assistant Missouri attorney general, as the state moved to enforce its seizure action under the state's King-Thompson Act covering strikes against public utilities.

Members of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees struck at midnight Monday, leaving the city without public transportation.

Officials said if the union and its officers refused to return to work they could be held in contempt of court.

The order will not take effect until copies of the order have been served on 30 defendants, including the union local, the union president, Loren Hargus and other union officials.

Sedalia Story Relived
In Talk With Cartoons

"Why We Are Thankful We Live in Sedalia" was the subject on which Ambrose McVey spoke at the meeting last week of Sedalia Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association at Bothwell Hotel. As he talked Pat Clark, through the media of cartoons, illustrated the talk.

In a clever and unique way the two presented the story, McVey giving a resume of Sedalia's small beginning in 1860, and Clark drawing the pictures. He told of the Civil War, which was a trying time, and placed quite an emphasis on the part women played during that period, their courage and stamina.

A few years after the Civil War, he stated, came the railroad which played a prominent part in the development of Sedalia. After this the intensive rivalry between Sedalia and Georgetown, regarding the county seat of Pettis County, with Sedalia eventually winning out.

Sedalia had many growing pains, the speaker said, but gradually grew into the town it is now.

He enumerated some of the prominent people Sedalia produced: Jay Gould, the railroad magnate; Jack Oakie, movie star; J. West Goodwin, Lucille McVey and many others.

After all the trials and tribulations Sedalia underwent, he concluded, it is a wonderful town to live in.

Mrs. Katherine Spillers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Della Gasperson, sang "Fascination" and "Bless This House."

Miss Mary Merriott, who was vice-president of the Charter Chapter, automatically became president with the death of Miss Nellie White, the president. Miss Merriott, who presided, announced the executive board had made the following appointments following Miss White's death: Miss Mary Merriott, president; Mrs. Lorene Owen, vice-president, and Mrs. Grace Reed, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Mary Maddox announced the "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest which will be held at the First Methodist Church on Saturday, Nov. 18, the luncheon to be held at 12:30 p.m. The contest is sponsored each year by the Sedalia Charter Chapter, ABWA.

Miss Merriott told of the Annual Holiday Tea of the American Business Women's Association which will be given at the National Headquarters at 5100 Oak Street, Kansas City, Mo., on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 3. The time of members of the Sedalia Charter Chapter to attend is 3:30 p.m.

Miss Merriott, assisted by Mrs. Evelyn Rabourn, gave a very beautiful memorial in honor of Miss Nellie White who died Oct. 27, 1961.

"I present this single, perfect, white carnation, the official flower of ABWA, as a tribute to Nellie White," Miss Merriott told the group. "Nellie was one of the charter members of Sedalia Charter Chapter of ABWA. She served as chairman of the vocational committee, the program committee, the auditing committee and the publicity committee. She had also served in the offices of corresponding secretary and treasurer, and was currently serving as president. Nellie will always be remembered by the members of Sedalia Charter Chapter ABWA as a faithful and loyal member who gave untiringly of her efforts and time."

An interesting report was made by Mrs. Evelyn Rabourn on the National Convention held on October 21 and 22. Mrs. Rabourn, Miss Jessie White and the late Miss Nellie White attended the convention from Sedalia.

Invocation was given by Miss Margaret Bohon and guests introduced were Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose McVey, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Clark and Mrs. Katherine Spillers.

Mixed bouquets of fall flowers decorated the tables with green tapers in silver holders.

Aging Intelligence, New Burn Treatment In Study

Intelligence, a new technique to avoid scars from burns, and healthy executives figure in the medical news.

Intelligence Endures
When older people stay healthy and vigorous, there does not appear to be any decline in their intelligence with the advancing years, says Dr. Robert W. Kleimier, Washington University psychologist.

He gave intelligence tests at intervals over a 12-year period to persons aged 65 to 90. He found no evidence for the idea there is a normal and steady intellectual decline with the years. But in those who were soon to die, regardless of age, the tests revealed a sharp drop in performance.

Burns Without Scars
For severe burns, a Belgian plastic surgeon uses a bold new technique which he reports avoids scars and deformities.

Under anesthesia, Dr. Jean Lorthior of Brussels "sandpapers" the burned areas immediately with a high-speed abrasive drill to remove the dead tissue. A month after the scraping, the skin has been restored, and in nearly all cases it eliminates any scarring, says Medical World News.

First Baptist WMS
Holds Meet Thursday

The Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church held its regular program meeting Thursday evening at the church.

Mrs. J. R. Wallace, prayer chairman, led the meditation and calendar of prayer after which Mrs. J. C. Collins, program chairman, presented the program, "I Am The Way" as the theme.

Special music was furnished by the men's quartet composed of Aubrey Case, Ralph Hodges, Winston Ream and Francis Rudd.

There was an introductory skit with a scene centered around a table in a breakfast room. Mrs. Terry Pile and Mrs. J. W. Goddard were seated at the table discussing news events and the five new countries Baptist missionaries have entered. The new countries and women who spoke on each are as follows: France, Mrs. Leonard Hall; Portugal, Mrs. Charles Hofheins; Okinawa, Mrs. Clyde Eisle; Viet Nam, Mrs. Homer Gunn; and Sumatra, Mrs. Woodrow Gordon.

Mrs. R. L. Momborg presided at the business meeting. Plans were made for the week of prayer for foreign missions Nov. 27-Dec. 1.

The mission study committee announced the night circles mission study will be held Tuesday, Nov. 14, when the book "Hands Across the Sea" will be taught by Mrs. A. B. Constantz, state WMS director.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Paul Hunnell.

Young Girl Takes Role Of Parents

WARROAD, Minn. (AP)—Since September, Rita Foster, 20, has been mother and father to eight younger brothers and sisters.

Their father died from cancer in September, a year almost to the day after cancer had taken the life of their mother. Rita stepped in to keep the family together.

Several relatives live in the Warroad community. Rita says, "I suppose we could have sent the kids to live with them. But that would have meant splitting them up, and I will not have that."

Her voice had the snap of authority as she told one of the younger children to hang up her coat, another to stop teasing her sister, a third to get off the table.

"Sometimes they forget who's boss," she explained, "and I have to holler a little to remind them."

But when Denise and Deanne, the 4-year-old twins who still do not understand what happened to their parents, began to cry, she swept them into her arms to comfort them.

"I'm just trying to run this household the way mom or dad would have run it," she said.

The other children are Nancy, 17, and Michael, 15, her chief helpers. Gloria, 14, Barbara, 12, Delores, 11, and Roberta, 9.

Rita, a 1959 graduate of Warroad High School, was on vacation from her job in Minneapolis in September 1960, when her mother died. Last August another sister, Vonnice, took a job in Minneapolis.

Both were called home by the illness of their father.

"I didn't like the big cities and Vonnice did," Rita explained, "so I decided to stay here."

Warroad is a community of 1,275 on vast Lake of the Woods in far northwestern Minnesota 300 miles from Minneapolis.

"If Donald Foster and his wife didn't leave them a whole lot of money," said an aunt, Grace Foster, who has been named legal guardian of the children, "they left them with good judgment and common sense."

Miss Foster says she's not too concerned about the children as long as Rita is in charge. Their father left a little money. Applications have been made for railroad retirement benefits and a veterans pension. Warroad citizens collected $200 for credit at a grocery store.

Rita says she has no plans for marriage.

"I've got enough troubles right now without looking for any more."

Awarded Damages For Losing Voice

LONDON (AP)—Three biscuits tins fell on Queenie Fory's head at the grocer's shop where she works. She lost her voice.

Later Mrs. Fory spilled a kettle of boiling water on her foot and her voice came back.

A court awarded her 5 pounds—$14—damages against the firm Tuesday for those lost hours of talking.

Bank Teller Seares Off Would-be Thief

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Bank teller Ruby Moise, 27, was talking on the phone when a would-be robber arrived at her drive-in window Tuesday.

"I said, 'There's a man at my window with a gun' and my friend said, 'duck.' About the same time I pushed the burglar alarm," she related.

The robber's car took off.

TV Attracts Quartet To New Careers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Television—perhaps specifically the first "Sing Along with Mitch" show two seasons back—is responsible for the loss of an electrical engineer, a diplomat, a physician and a broad-casting executive.

Those were the professions toward which members of a singing group called "The Brothers Four" were heading when the lightning of success struck.

The four, all from the Seattle area, were fraternity brothers, seniors at the University of Washington. John Paine, Bob Flick, Dick Foley and Mike Kirkland had made a recording, "Green Fields" which caught on. Then came the "Sing Along" date.

Occasional TV appearances have been vital to their success, the boys say. They have done guest shots on all the top network shows. As a result record sales have increased, they can demand more money, turn down jobs they don't like. (They don't like night club dates), and have become financially secure.

The disadvantages are that none has found time to finish his college education. They spend more time jetting around to their far-flung dates than they spend on the ground. In the past eight days they have played college dates (which they do like) in eight places, ranging from Florida to Michigan, from the west to the east coasts.

Their next TV appearance is on NBC's Thanksgiving night special, "Home for the Holidays."

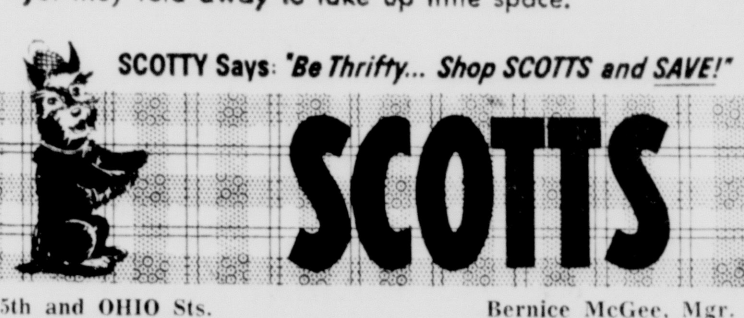

"We like to give concerts for colleges," explained John Paine, the group baritone. "Television sure broadens our base. The college students don't watch television—they are too busy doing other things. So we hit them with our concerts, and the others see us on TV. Works out just great. Except we can't get home for the holidays ourselves."

As "Shotgun Slade" goes on and on, saving maidens in jeopardy, rounding up bank thieves and stalking villains, hero Scott Brady keeps getting stockier and fuller-faced.

All those adventures must be loaded with calories.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann: You helped me win the man I love and here's how you did it:

I had a habit of falling head over heels. I'd go steady, hot and heavy — no holds barred — because it seemed like the honest approach to life. After a few months I'd find myself dropped, with no explanation. I was left broken-hearted and ashamed.

I wrote and asked you why I had lost five good marriage prospects inside of 18 months. You let me have it right between the eyes.

Then I met Ted — the best of the lot. I decided to take your advice. Yes, he tried, but I said, "Look, Buster, if the frustration is too much for you, find another girl!"

We are being married in January and I'm going to name our first daughter after you. He'll never know it's YOU, Ann. I'll let him think it's his Aunt Anna.

— HAPPY NOW

Dear Happy: So am I. And delighted, too.

A farmer in Edgerton, Wisconsin once named a horse after me, but never before has a reader honored me in this way. Many thanks.

Dear Ann Landers: I lost my beloved husband five months ago. We had no children and my entire life revolved around him. Now that he's gone I am lost.

A close friend has offered me a fine position in a home for wayward girls. Before my marriage I did social work and enjoyed it. I have a lovely apartment and I don't need the money. This job would require me to give up my place and move to another city.

There are times when I feel I must get away from all these memories, and other times I can't bear the thought of leaving. What is your advice? SEARCHING L.

Dear Searching: Keep your apartment intact and try the position for six months. If it doesn't work out you can always return.

New surroundings and work into which you can put your heart may be your salvation. It's worth the gamble.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a young bride who has been married only seven months. My husband and I have a lovely two-bedroom bungalow and are awfully happy.

When I was nine my mother died and my grandmother took me to raise. I shudder to think of what could have happened to me if Grandma hadn't been so open-hearted. She lives in a city 250 miles away and last night I told my husband that I would like to invite Grandma to visit us for a week. She has never seen our home and it would give her a lot of pleasure. He shocked me by saying, "If you invite her I'm going to take my vacation that week. I can't stand old people."

We've never had a fuss and I don't want any trouble in our marriage. What shall I do?

— LAVENDER BLUE

Dear L. B.: So he can't stand old people? And what does he plan to do with YOU when you get old? Shoot you?

Invite your grandmother to visit you for a week. If your husband isn't grown up enough to stay at home and be a cordial host, let the big baby take his vacation.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Business, Consumers Feel Better Down Home Stretch

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Both business and consumers feel better today as 1961 goes into the home stretch. The last half of this fourth quarter could see a switch from hesitation to a forward movement.

Few expect anything like a boom—in spite of all the outburst of confidence in the stock market. But most signs point to good business in the last six weeks of the year.

Consumers appear in a better mood. Many apparently have decided that the recession of last year really is over.

And merchants count heavily on translating the Christmas spirit into good sales. They note that retail sales rose in October after a spell of caution in the early fall.

Auto dealers report a pickup in sales and hope for even better as production snarls disappear. Most of the auto industry has its labor problems behind it. That usually on a reported change in consumer attitudes helping sales.

They contend that not only are retail sales themselves up, but the rate of saving appears to be dropping after a rise during the worrisome months of the recession and during the uncertain period of the recovery.

Government figures estimating that farm income this year will be a billion dollars higher than last year also hearten both the merchants serving them and the makers of farm equipment and supplies.

Many other manufacturers are looking for increased government spending to jack up their sales in the weeks and months ahead. The news from Washington continues to forecast more spending, if anything, than first projected.

Business itself has been increasing its spending. This shows in the higher inventory totals. Usually this reflects a rise in confidence along with hard orders requiring more materials.

Handicap Doesn't Hamper Smile of a Little Girl

Anyone who has ever seen Carolyn Burt surely would remember her for she is a beautiful little girl with an angelic expression and a look of love in her unusually pretty eyes. Everyone remembers Carolyn who has a smile for anyone who looks her direction — and they find themselves smiling back.

Somehow you wonder what Carolyn has to smile about as she sits in her wheel chair. To most people a future in a wheel chair seems like no future at all, but not for Carolyn—for her world lies before her. Only this past month, on Oct. 17, she became 15, and the many things girls of 15 want to do and expect from the world about them, are not in her brilliant young mind at all.

"Why can't I?" the normal teenager asks. "All the other kids are doing this." Yet Carolyn does not expect to do what all the other kids are doing—she never has—for life began for her with a cerebral palsy condition—and so she never could do what the other kids did.

Cerebral palsy, which usually begins before or at birth, is a brain injury that, in Carolyn's case, prevented the use of her muscles and she has never been able to walk. She not only could not use her legs but she can't use her hands either because the brain controls the muscles and the damaged areas cannot answer these impulses it receives, or if it does it answers them wrong.

Then a second thing happened to Carolyn. When she was about seven years old she had polio. Too, there was no socket for the hip bone, and while that, alone, could have been remedied through surgery, it was pointless, for she could never walk anyway.

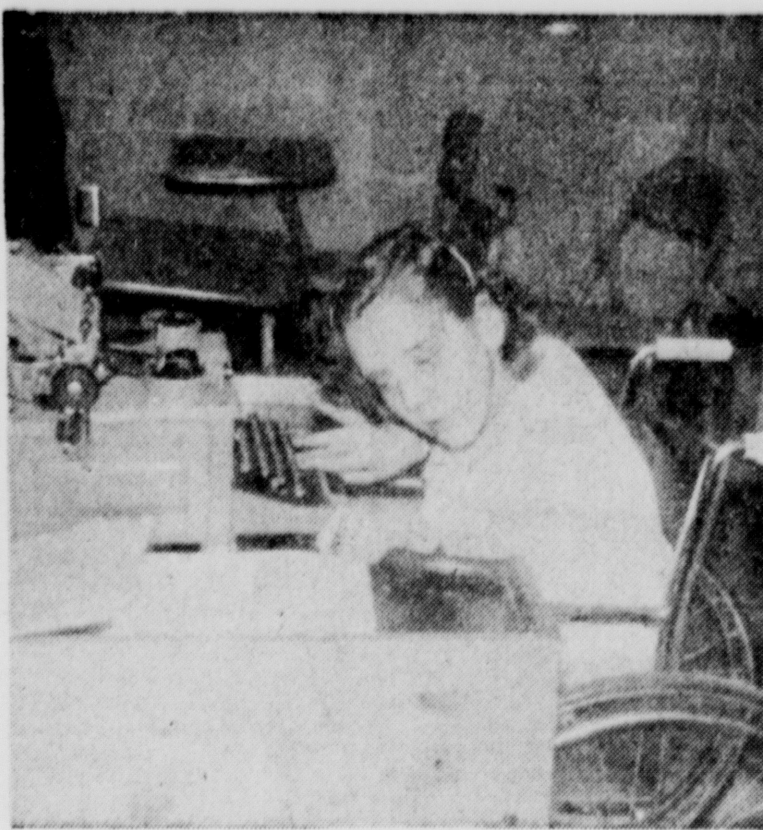

This pretty young girl has a severe speech problem as well, because she has a very low volume voice and she runs out of breath when she tries to talk.

Because of these two, cerebral palsy and polio, together, the Crippled Children's Center, where she has been treated for about five years, find real problems trying to help her. Therapy for one does not help the other and they do not know which has caused certain conditions and whether to continue or if the treatment would be useless. So it is always in the dark that they work with Carolyn trying to find the things that will help her even just a little.

But Carolyn is above the average academically, and soon will be graduating from the eighth grade.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Burt, Route 1, who came here from Kansas City, Carolyn attended DeLano School for handicapped children before coming here.

One day, four or more years ago, the Center received a call asking if they could take Carolyn

Carolyn Burt

The teacher, Mrs. Lula Carson, in coordination. It is fun and she is proud of her work. She is actually doing a job and she likes that.

One of four children, Carolyn has an older brother and two younger sisters, and she is a very happy and cheerful person, always.

So Carolyn started in at the Center and Mrs. Carson, who lives in Ottumwa, the only teacher at the Center who has one paid assistant, Mrs. Robb Whitely, taught Carolyn in the fifth, sixth and seventh grades, and now in the eighth. She will take an examination given by the county superintendent, when this year is completed, and will then be graduated from the eighth grade so she can enter high school.

But when Carolyn enters high school the family plans to move back to Kansas City so she can return to the DeLano High School. Although the way has been long and rough in the things she has tried to overcome she has learned to do many things. Among them is using the typewriter.

When her father found that she could type some he immediately bought her a typewriter, and she has progressed to such a degree that she can help Mrs. Mary Kay Hunter, registrar at the Center. The little hands that move slowly and with difficulty have mastered the typewriter keyboard and she does a nice job typing the cards for Mrs. Hunter.

Carolyn's typing helps in many ways — but the most important thing, it is a therapy that helps

257 Enrolled From County At CMSC

Enrollment of students from Pettis County at Central Missouri State totals 257 of whom 91 are freshmen.

With enrollment nearly completed for the winter term beginning November 29, a survey made by Dr. W. O. Hampton, dean of student personnel, shows that the student body of 4,365 at CMS is made up of persons from 79 counties in Missouri, and from 36 states.

Enrollment figures show that there are 1,267 students from Jackson County. This figure includes 385 freshmen. Other leading counties are Johnson with 463; Lafayette, 203; Cass, 119; Clay, 121; Henry, 155; Pettis, 257; Saline, 109. There are 112 students enrolled from St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Out of state students who pay an additional fee are from 36 states. They total 221 persons. There are 19 foreign students at CMS.

Under a new system, counseling and enrollment of students for the next semester is done by appointment during the current semester. This eliminates lost time from mass registration between terms and allows greater continuity of the school program.

Final enrollment date for the winter term at Central Missouri State is December 8.

Homer Hound Happy With A New Lung

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Homer, a sad-eyed hound, is a frisky dog five months after one of his lungs was replaced by a transplant and a research team thinks this may be a step closer to successful transplant of major organs.

One of Homer's lungs was replaced May 26 by a lung from another dog. For two weeks he received daily injections of methotrexate, a drug originally developed to fight cancer. He was very sick for a time, but recovered.

Doctors at the University of Michigan Medical Center believe methotrexate may have properties that prevent rejection of alien tissue.

Transplant of eye corneas, blood and bone fragments are fairly common, but transferring major organs is difficult because such tissues usually are rejected by the receiving body.

Dr. Paulette Szadaly, a University of Michigan veterinarian, says the five months Homer has lived may be a medical record.

The research dog is closely watched and has the services of his own physician, veterinarian and registered nurse.

Most dogs given methotrexate in experiments die, but Homer is growing and becoming stronger. He undergoes intensive examinations—X-rays, blood tests and the like.

"He's very playful," said Dr. Szadaly, "but he knows when there's work to do. He practically jumps up on the examination table by himself."

A spokesman for the research team said they don't know how or why Homer has been able to survive longer than the two or three months most dogs live after such experiments.

"We are still a long way from finding the solution," he said, "but we believe Homer will give us a big lead toward understanding the whole transplantation problem."

The research program is sponsored by grants from the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and the American Thoracic Society.

Two persons were injured in a two-car smash-up one mile east of LaMonte on Highway 30 about 7:30 a.m. Wednesday.

A 1961 Chevrolet, driven by John Watt, 21, Whiteman, was hit from the rear by a 1956 Ford driven by Jimmy Law, 21, also of Whiteman.

The accident occurred as a number of cars in a line of traffic came to a sudden stop. There was considerable damage to the rear of the Chevrolet and front of the Ford.

Riding with Watt was his wife, Janis, who received neck injuries. Law complained of chest injuries. Both were treated at the base hospital.

Trooper Pete Stohr conducted the investigation. No citations were issued. Blame for the accident, according to Stohr, was weather conditions.

Others in the area, which has been a part of the Sedalia School District for many years, were contacted and they, too, had been instructed in the statements to pay taxes to the Sunnyside School District.

In checking on the situation, Norris found that somewhere along the line, someone had assumed that as the area is outside the city limits, the taxes would go to Sunnyside, and the tax statements were prepared accordingly.

The board Tuesday night assigned Norris to investigate and see if he could find a way to have the tax money transferred back to the Sedalia School District.

At the beginning of the meeting Miss Marion Keens, first grade teacher at Broadway School, gave a talk on first grade activities and teaching methods at the school.

Penetrating Eye Camera Gets a Test

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An electronic camera that sees through smoke heavy enough to block out visible and infra-red rays was tested for the first time during the recent Bel-Air and Topanga Canyon fires.

Dr. Robert M. Stewart, director of applied research for Space-General Corp., disclosed the experiment Tuesday night in a talk to the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences.

Stewart said the device, operated from an airplane at an altitude of 10,000 feet, successfully mapped the path of the blaze and showed the intensity of hot spots even though the area was blanketed by smoke.

By relaying what the camera sees to the ground, Stewart said, fire department command posts could keep a wide-spread blaze under constant surveillance, dispatching equipment to new flare-ups instantly.

Stewart said the new camera was an extremely sensitive microwave radiometer, a device for receiving very short radio waves.

"This is not an infra-red device," Stewart said. "Fire emits microwaves as well as infra-red radiation, and these are what the camera records."

"Infra-red cameras won't work in this application because smoke particles scatter infra-red radiation. Microwaves, however, go right through the smoke."

Stewart said the camera also could be used to detect icebergs from the air even though hidden by a layer of clouds.

"Microwave radiometers are sensitive to any contrast in temperature," he said. "The icebergs, being colder than the surrounding water, would show up instantly."

Stewart would not say whether the camera could be used in the United States' space spy satellites. Midas and Samos. Midas uses infra-red radiation to detect the heat of missile exhaust. Samos carries cameras of various types to photograph enemy territory under all types of atmospheric conditions.

Hunters Move in As Season On Whitetail Deer Opens

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Thousands of hunters moved into Missouri's woods Tuesday for the opening of the seven-day gun season on the state's bountiful crop of whitetail deer.

The Conservation Commission reported the deer are in exceptionally healthy condition, especially in the southern part of the state. The commission expressed hope the hunters would not congregate in favored areas as they have in the past so the harvest would be generally level throughout the state.

The season opens at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday with daily shooting hours from then until 5 p.m. each day through next Tuesday.

Any deer—bucks, does or fawns—are legal game in 54 counties and bucks only are legal in the rest of the state. In the bucks only counties the deer must have at least one forked horn to be legal.

Generally, the bucks only counties lie north of the Missouri River and the deer counties south of the Big Muddy. But there are exceptions.

In these six counties north of the river any deer is legal: Callaway, Montgomery, Warren, St. Charles, Lincoln and Pike.

In these 22 counties south of the river bucks are the only legal game:

Saline, Pettis, Lafayette, Jackson, Cass, Bates, Henry, Vernon, Barton, Cedar Dade, Jasper, Lawrence, Polk, Greene, Webster, Cape Girardeau, Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

This is the second year in which the gun season has stretched over seven days. Before the season was limited to six days to prevent hunting with guns on Sunday.

Last year, 83,899 gunners, 2,632 from out of state and a sizable number of farmers took part in the hunt. They bagged an estimated 17,800 deer. The kill had to down as an estimate because farmers hunting on their own land do not have to have a special permit and do not have to report their kill.

The swift growth of the sport may be shown by the fact a year earlier, the number of hunters included 66,613 Missourians and 1,669 non-Missourians.

Last year two hunters were killed by other hunters and two

Company officials speaking before the group included: Chris Litwiller, assistant superintendent of underwriting; Ed Laduke, assistant superintendent of policyholders service; V. Carston Moore, property claims supervisor; Edward Humbles, life risk appraiser; and Clayton Marks, superintendent of fire underwriting.

The central Missouri district presently ranks in the top 50 districts out of the firm's 800 districts in the United States in production and service, according to district manager Hopkins.

Sedalia agents attending were William P. Hurley, Russell Gilmore, Wray Schroeder and George R. Thompson.

Bonds Near Goal

J. J. McGrath, Savings Bonds chairman for Pettis County, today gave the October U.S. Savings Bonds sales of $57,114, making a total of $895,881 to November first, or 72.5 per cent of the 1961 quota.

more were seriously injured. During the gun season those taking part in the continuing special archery season must conform with the gun season shooting hours, 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. For the rest of the archery season which ends Dec. 15, the shooting hours are from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The Conservation Commission has set up eight check stations and hunters are urged to take their kills there for inspection. The commission said the stations were established to provide more information on the deer population and health in specific areas.

The check stations are located at Warsaw in Benton County, Pineville in McDonald County, the junction of routes J and P in Phelps County, Potosi in Washington County, Willow Springs in Howell County, Stover in Morgan County, Raymondville in Texas County and Piedmont in Wayne County.

War Hysteria Is Mounting In Indonesia

JAKARTA (AP)—War hysteria is mounting in Indonesia as the United Nations approaches a vote on a Dutch proposal to give West New Guinea self-determination.

Led by President Sukarno, who declared that Indonesia would get West New Guinea with or without the approval of the United Nations, top government leaders have called on the people to prepare for war.

Sukarno insists that West New Guinea, as part of the prewar Dutch East Indies, is an integral part of Indonesia.

The Dutch, which retained the western half of the big island after Indonesia won independence, contend that its mostly primitive Papuan population is ethnically separate from the Indonesians and entitled to determine its own future. The Dutch want the United Nations to administer the territory until the people are ready for a plebiscite.

Australia governs the eastern half of New Guinea. So far the Indonesians have made no claim to it.

Jakarta is tense as U.N. debate on the Dutch proposal nears.

The remainder was put in trust for "the enhancement and enrichment of the educational program" of the Lexington school system.

Says Berlin Crisis Up to Soviet Union

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said Tuesday night it was up to the Soviet Union to determine if there will be a reasonable settlement on Berlin or an indefinite continuation of tension.

Diefenbaker, addressing the National Conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges, said that while the West must be wary of Soviet Premier Khrushchev, it must not reject out of hand any indication that he might recognize the need for an agreement with the West on the divided city.

The Airport Bond Issue

"The $200,000 bond issue for improvement of Sedalia's Municipal Memorial Airport isn't going to pass, so you're foolish to support the issue when it's already a dead duck."

That's a negative suggestion to us having no merit at all.

Ever since Cecil Payne started flying out of a corn field west of Sedalia nearly fifty years ago and cracked up, the spark of interest in a local airport has been kept alive even though the ember has nearly gone out several times because of the persistence of some old-fashioned thinking around here.

It's simply ludicrous to cling to an idea Sedalia need not develop airport facilities for passenger and commercial service to keep pace with changing times.

Population-wise and airport-wise Sedalia has been left behind by Jefferson City, Columbia and Cape Girardeau, three cities which have kept pace proportionately with airport development in larger communities.

And we are still competitively involved for acquirement of industries and businesses with such communities as Kirkwood, Moberly, Joplin, Carthage and Springfield.

There is no iron-clad assurance Sedalia will get huge industries just because it provides accommodations for commercial feeder-type of planes, but one thing is certain when Sedalia is considered as a possible plant site, it gets downgraded promptly because we have no commercial feeder line air service.

Community airport development with the assistance of state and federal funds is going on all over the country. Sedalia's present opportunity is to provide $200,000 with the prospect of participating in government funds to an amount of $214,000, the city being given a $14,000 credit for previous land acquisition. This would make a total expenditure of $428,000 for Municipal Airport development here for which we pay half.

Cost to the taxpayers on an annual basis would be: $1.20 on assessed valuation of $2,000; $1.80 on $3,000; $2.40 on $4,000; $3.00 on $5,000; $3.60 on $6,000; $4.20 on $7,000. That checks out 60 cents per year per 1,000 assessed valuation.

A case in point about airport developments comes to our attention from a sister newspaper in Henderson, Kentucky which declares in connection with its own airport expansion:

"Kentucky is definitely on the way in airport development. Nine new airports were recently dedicated in a busy day that will make history in airport progress . . . state government officials covered the nine dedications in one day to view the installation of airport construction . . . we are in the midst of the most air-minded administration in Kentucky's history . . . the use of aircraft for and by people engaged in businesses and professions helps to expedite sales and production . . . airports have given impetus to the trends to locate industrial plants in smaller cities . . . an airport development program is essential to the progress of Kentucky."

We can't imagine Sedalia being out-paced by Kentucky towns, although up to now it has lagged behind its own sister cities.

Facts and figures about the bond issue which comes up for public attention Tuesday, November 21, have been presented before Sedalia organizations and reported in the news media by a hard working Airport committee which has been wrestling with the local problem for years.

Regardless of the outcome and a friend's advice not to support it, we are urging support of the bond issue at the polls at this time rather than wait another decade to do what must be done eventually.

There can be no progress if citizens arbitrarily refuse to budge an inch from where they stood twenty years ago on the airport issue or on any other enterprising community endeavor.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Cardinal Cushing May Be No. 1 Prelate

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Out of the first full meeting of the Roman Catholic hierarchy since John F. Kennedy became the first Catholic president could come a sharp turn toward liberalism in the church. His Eminence Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, a close friend of Kennedy's, may emerge as No. 1 prelate of the United States.

Cushing has been seething silently over the blunt manner in which Cardinal Spellman, now considered the No. 1 prelate, and his friend Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati, put the church into politics by threatening to block the entire Kennedy aid-to-education program if Catholic schools were not included.

The Boston cardinal has been on record ever since 1946 that if federal aid was offered, his parochial schools would not take it because it would compromise the freedom of the church in its teaching.

Joseph Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis was also displeased with the Spellman-Alter position against federal aid to education and in a public statement stopped short of repudiating it. Cardinal McIntyre in Los Angeles was also unhappy.

With three of the five cardinals obviously entertaining misgivings over Archbishop Alter's statement of March 3, the question has arisen as to just where Catholic leaders do stand.

Where They Really Stand

Sources close to the bishops explain that actually there was no unanimity when they met at the National Catholic Welfare Conference headquarters last spring. Instead, the bishops lined up as follows:

1. One group led by Cardinal Spellman definitely and vigorously wanted federal aid to parochial schools.

2. Another group led by Cardinal Cushing opposed federal aid for fear it would compromise their freedom.

3. Perhaps the majority felt that they would accept federal aid if it was voted, but would not feel aggrieved if it was not.

In contrast, the Spellman group, with the Archbishop of Cincinnati as its spokesman, issued an "or else" statement warning that the church would oppose the entire aid-to-education program unless parochial schools were included, and then proceeded to do exactly that. Inside the rules committee, Rep. James J. Delaney of New York, close friend of Spellman's, proceeded to block all aid-to-education. Even when President Kennedy appeared to him personally Delaney would not budge.

As they now look back on the carnage of the first session of Congress under the first Catholic president, the Catholic prelates are coming to the conclusion that they suffered a major defeat.

First, this occurs just as Pope John has opened an unprecedented era in good relations with other church bodies by calling for an ecumenical congress and receiving the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Second, the Spellman-Alter position forced an open break between the hierarchy and the first Catholic president in history. Some of the prelates now feel Kennedy will have to take an unflinching stand on church-state separation in the future.

Third, the Spellman-Alter position will hurt Rep. John McCormack of Boston, long considered one of the best congressional friends of the church, in his battle to become Speaker of the House of Representatives. Already opposition has developed on the ground that this would put three Catholics at the head of three important branches of government—Kennedy in the White House; Sen. Mike Mansfield, leader of the Senate; and McCormack as leader of the House.

Since the school-aid battle, however, there have been some significant moves by the Vatican, indicating the most vigorous battler for federal aid for Catholic schools—Cardinal Spellman—is losing his influence in Rome.

Spellman suffered a jolt when the able but relatively unknown auxiliary bishop of Cleveland, John Kral, was appointed by Pope John as archbishop of Philadelphia, without consulting Spellman.

To take a relatively unknown auxiliary bishop from a medium-sized diocese and put him in the nation's third most important city was unprecedented.

Spellman was also by-passed when Bishop Shehan of Bridgeport, Conn., was named coadjutor to the very important archdiocese of Baltimore, where he is in line to succeed Archbishop Francis Keough.

There may not be too much time at the current meetings for a full-dress debate on the fiasco resulting from the Alter statement; for in addition to taking up one morning with a special mass, Spellman is making a fervent appeal for more chaplains for the armed forces, and there will also be a number of long reports by agencies of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

But those who know Cardinal Cushing of Boston believe he may choose this time for a showdown as to whether or not Spellman shall have the power to speak for the hierarchy and dictate its policies.

Severe Critics

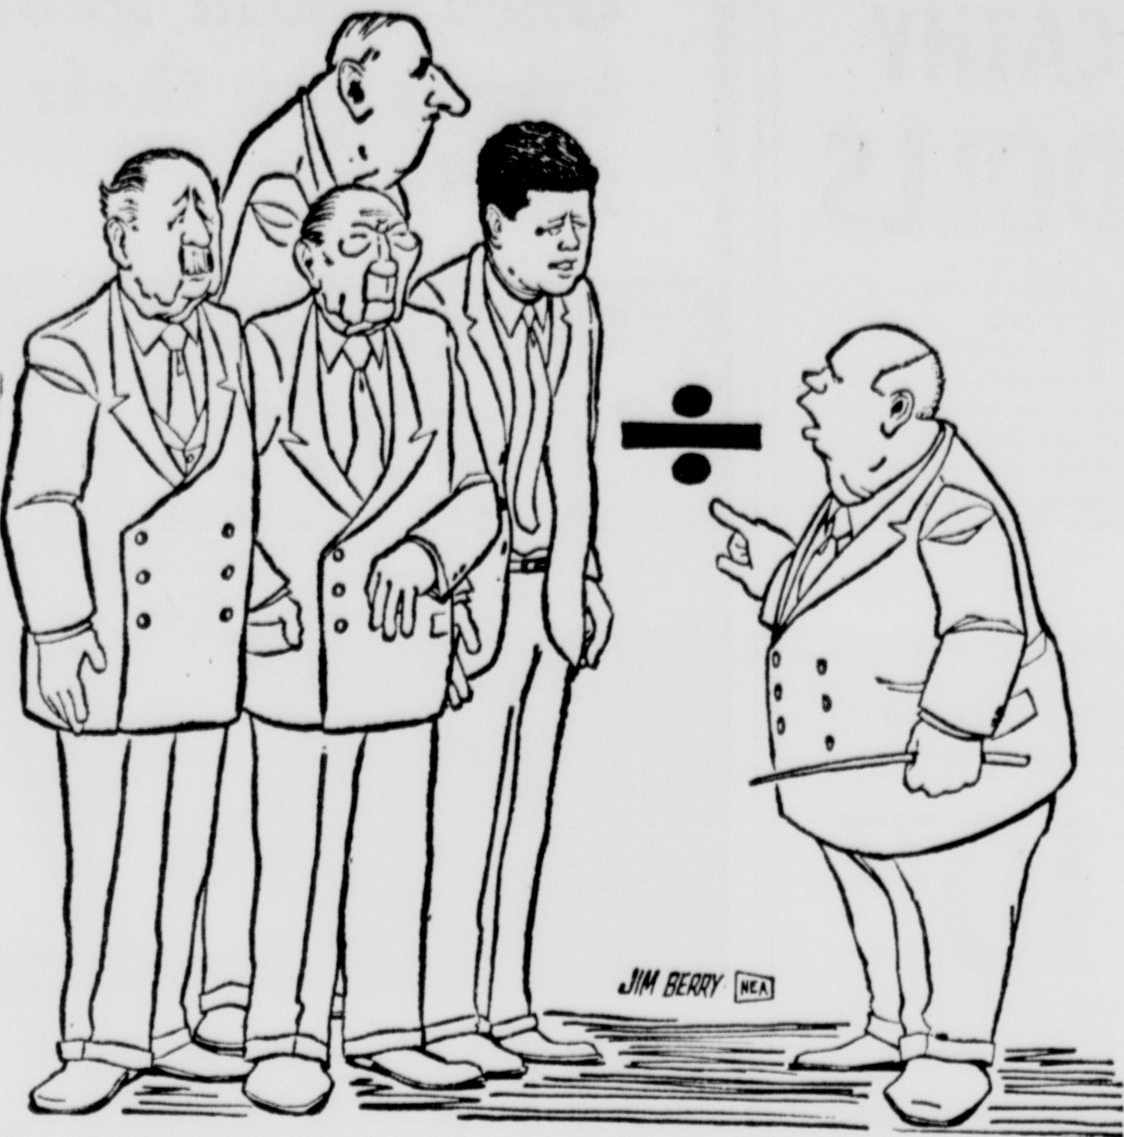

The American theater is sensibly acclaimed as one of the last refuges of realism in art. But the heavy spate of plays dealing with sex and its abnormalities suggests that some of our playwrights may have their "realistic" lens out of focus.

The other night in Washington, at a signal from an evidently startled high school principal, 146 students marched out in the middle of a new play about sex. The protest of their shuffling feet even interrupted the drama.

Perhaps the writers, too, should perk up their ears. They have a right to press their quest for truth wherever they wish. But "realism" does not demand that they always find it in a dirt heap.

If the theater doesn't soon set a cleaner trend, the adult theatergoers may also start marching noisily out in protest.

Truman and Ike Like Look-Alikes

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, although they might not like to think so, have looked like look-alikes facing in opposite directions in the first year after each left office.

Each, as he walked out of the White House, got a hunting license to pot-shoot his successor. They fired merrily, or indignantly, or disparagingly, as the mood seized them, which was pretty often.

But there were other parallels that may tend to get the public accustomed to what to expect from ex-presidents in the future.

Neither, when he gave up the presidency, was happy about the last election results. In 1952 Truman backed Adlai E. Stevenson who lost to Eisenhower. In 1960 Eisenhower backed Richard M. Nixon who lost to John F. Kennedy.

While Truman and Eisenhower were tied at having more unbalanced budgets while they were in office, they never could get together on the budget subject.

In 1953, after getting adjusted to civilian life again, Truman banged away at Eisenhower's administration for what Truman called its dangerous philosophy that balancing the budget is the most sacred objective of government.

In 1961 Eisenhower, although his $12-billion deficit in 1959 was the biggest in peacetime history, said the failure of President Kennedy's administration to balance the budget would effect the nation's future strength against communism.

Truman in 1953 complained that the Republicans under Eisenhower were going down the middle of the road moving backwards. Eisenhower in 1961 said, "The confusion I sense" in the Kennedy administration "is like a tornado on a spring day."

Both men, in their first year out of office, couldn't stay out of active politics. Truman had better luck than Eisenhower.

In 1953 Truman, after first letting it be known he wouldn't jump into the New York mayoralty race to back Robert F. Wagner Jr., who won and thereafter kept on winning.

In 1961 Eisenhower went to New York to back Republican Louis J. Lefkowitz against Wagner, who was running again. Wagner won once more. Eisenhower also went into New Jersey's gubernatorial race to support Republican James P. Mitchell against Democrat Richard J. Hughes. Kennedy and Truman campaigned for Hughes, who won.

But while both men had plenty of fault to find with what their successors were doing at home, both stopped it at the water's edge.

Truman in 1953 called for firm support for Eisenhower during the Korean War negotiations. In 1961 Eisenhower said Republicans stand as Americans first, not partisans, behind Kennedy in foreign affairs.

The Doctor Says

How Often Is Indigestion Caused By Indiscretions?

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

More often than not, the complaint of "indigestion" or "dyspepsia" is the alibi we give for distress that results from the abuses we heap on perfectly normal, well-functioning hard-working organs.

When we say we have "indigestion," it may be pretty much like blaming a one-ton truck for not being able to handle five tons.

When we say we have "dyspepsia," it's like blaming an innocent bystander for an accident he just happened to see. Since, to put the matter bluntly there are no known consequences of abnormal, deficient or excessive peptic secretion.

When we say we have "heartburn," we're bearing false witness since the cardiac pump has nothing whatsoever to do with the charge we're making.

Now these statements are not made for the purpose of belittling the possible importance of the various types of bellyache from which so many of us suffer so much of the time. They are made to draw your attention to the obvious fact that, in many instances, you may be the "assailant," not the "victim" of your distress.

If you're willing to admit that possibility, perhaps you may also be willing to read a list of your "crimes" with the idea of "re-forming" yourself by correcting or eliminating the offenses you have been committing against yourself. That is, provided that you have no accompanying manifestations

In his first year out of office Truman gave interviews. So did Eisenhower.

Truman wrote a series of five articles on "What It Is Like to Become an Ordinary Citizen." Eisenhower has chimed about that with newsmen and has given a series of TV interviews on the problems of his presidency.

Both men were unlike President Hoover who remained silent on political issues for two years after leaving office. But what Hoover had to say in politics after that can hardly be said to have influenced events much.

It seems certain that if President Roosevelt had lived to retire he wouldn't have been any more quiet than Truman or Eisenhower.

But neither Truman nor Eisenhower, for all their talk, can be said to have influenced voters' minds much when they themselves weren't running.

This, however, is not likely to discourage either of them from trying.

that support serious organic disease, more specifically, loss of weight and strength, persistent nausea and vomiting, or the passage of bloody or tarry stools.

Here, then, is a run-down of some of commonly encountered, self-inflicted digestive "crimes":

Causing irritation of a sensitive stomach by overloading; by cramming in food of inferior quality or food that's been improperly prepared.

By stuffing with roughage, often sold as "health foods."

By bolting down large hunks of unchewed or partially chewed foods or sticky candy or popcorn that may temporarily block the exit door (pylorus).

By seasoning your meal with spices that do to the delicate wall of your stomach what a mustard plaster does to your skin.

By swallowing fried foods some of whose fragments are as soggy as wet shoe leather while others are as shrapnel as sand paper.

By not bothering to chew your food either because you're in such a rush or because your gums are sore or your dentures don't fit.

But don't go away mad, as the kids say. There'll be more in another column.

Grumbling Is Good Way To Blow Off Your Steam

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Her father-in-law had suffered a heart attack. Because his wife was too old to give him convalescent care, his daughter-in-law took them into her home until the invalid recovered. She complained to me about the necessity of rearranging the downstairs floor when her youngster turned on a TV broadcast of a baseball game in the next room.

She called, "Turn that thing off!"—and was obeyed. But we could both hear him grumbling something about this "yak-yak-yak again about grandpa."

"What was that you said?" his mother called. "Come in here and apologize—or go up to your room! The very idea of talking back like that to mother."

Yet for 30 minutes the lady herself had been grumbling about an obedience to family obligation that she didn't want to render.

If we were able to wholeheartedly indulge other people's demands on us, we would be entitled to demand unprotesting obedience from children. We can't and we don't. We, too, grumble at having to deliver obedience.

Although we appear in court for a traffic violation, we mutter to anyone who will listen, "Having to take time like this off from my business because a cop is too dumb to listen. . . ."

Although we lend Bill the $3 he asks for, we say, "Why do you always ask for cash at the end of the week when you know I'm short?"

We accept the chairmanship of a PTA committee; but when we get home we complain, "It's just like Fran Pearce to saddle me with his extra work when I'm trying to get the rugs down and the drapes back up for the winter."

In us, as in children, this grumbling back talk serves a useful purpose. It enables us to withstand the strains involved in doing our duty. If this release of protesting feelings were denied to us, we'd find it even harder than we do to manage our social existence.

So it behooves us to ignore it in children—and content ourselves with the fact of their obedience.

It's only tyrants or romantics who expect other people to obey them with pure and unprotesting gladness.

Children 'Bored to Tears' By TV Is a Good Sign

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In England a group of children, "bored to tears" with television, took matters into their own hands and got up a petition to have the town's only movie theater reopened.

Sounds as though they get bored with television at a little younger age in England than in the United States.

Over here young children seem to be able to take it in unlimited doses, spending far more time watching TV than studying, according to surveys.

But by the time they reach their teens they, too, are bored with television. Maybe because they have watched it for so long they can tell the plot of a Western just from glancing at the opening scene, or separate the good men from the bad men in a televised whodunit just by their stereotyped mannerisms. So they don't bother with TV once they've reached junior high school.

It's movies then—and any time they do spend around home they prefer to spend on the telephone or in their rooms, listening to the radio or record player.

The music serves simply as a background to whatever they happen to be doing—studying, reading, or lazily daydreaming.

TV here loses its young listeners as soon as they hit junior high and they remain lost to its charms until they are grown and married and once again fall back on TV as a convenient way of killing an evening.

It's all to the good that our old, twisted back and forth on the stool at the lunch counter in the dime store and smiled up at the woman who was about to take the order from her family: "I want a hot dog," she said, "with a wienie on it."—H. L.

Historical Book On State Written By Lew Larkin

Lew Larkin, bureau chief for the Kansas City Star at Jefferson City, has written a second book which will be published next month on the role Missouri played in colonizing the West. It was announced here today.

Patrick H. Blakeney Sr., president of the State Publishing Co., whose firm specializes in books on Missouri, made the announcement and said the title will be "Vanguard of Empire." The State Publishing Co. cooperated with a Kansas City firm in publishing Larkin's first book, "Bingham: Fighting Artist," a biography of the famous Missouri artist and statesman of the last century.

Blane Thanks Heaven For Saving Life

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I know it is a miracle that I am still alive. That's why I thank God every day for His help."

A serious Mel Blanc—"man of a thousand voices"—was talking about the car crash that by all rights should have taken his life. His car was struck head-on by another car on Sunset Boulevard last January.

One of the firemen who cut Mel out of the wreckage said later: "We should have just put him in a sack."

Nearing recovery at his Pacific Palisades home, Mel said, "When I asked my doctor what bones I had broken, he told me: If someone tells you he broke a bone, you can say you broke the same one—unless it's a left arm."

Blanc pointed to his right leg, still in a plaster cast. "This is the one that's slow to heal—21 breaks from the knee to the foot. One of them was compound, and that's what slowed me down."

"The knee cap was torn off my left leg, but somehow it was sewn back on. The other breaks included most of my ribs, six vertebrae, both sides of the pelvis and three skull fractures."

Mel remembers nothing from car until he regained consciousness 21 days later. What did he think about first?

"My voice," he said. "I realized my mouth and throat were undamaged and I could talk. I thanked God for that."

Mel's voice is his fortune; without it he would have been lost.

His son rigged up a recording studio so Mel could make scratch tracks—preliminary recordings to aid animators—for the two cartoon shows he does on TV. He is the voice of Bugs Bunny and plays Barney Rubble on "The Flintstones."

Now he is able to get around in a wheelchair and has made some recordings in the studios. Next week he'll make his grand return to Jack Benny's show, taping the Christmas Eve telecast. "Jack has been just wonderful," Mel remarked. "He has been out to see me at least every 10 days."

"Everybody has been wonderful, in fact. On the night I was hurt, 18 of my son's fraternity brothers at UCLA came to the hospital to offer blood."

"I have received 15,000 cards and letters, mostly from people I don't even know. They offered me their prayers, and they were Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, Mohammedan and even Buddhist. I am sure their prayers helped."

8 Red Cross Officials To Attend Meet

Eight delegates from the Pettis County chapter of the American Red Cross will attend the third annual Missouri State Red Cross conference in Springfield, Mo., Nov. 17 and 18.

The two-day conference, to be held at Drury College, will emphasize "Your Red Cross Ability" in the changing community.

Attending from Sedalia will be Pettis County Chairman Maurice F. Hogan, board members Oscar DeWolf, A. K. Downs and Mrs. Downs, and Mrs. Edward E. Brummet. Completing the local delegation will be Pettis County Chapter's Gray Lady Co-Chairmen Mrs. Edward Hoffman and Mrs. Lawrence L. Brown.

Keynote speaker at the opening general session on Friday, Nov. 17, will be Frederic S. Laise, manager, Midwestern Area office, American Red Cross, St. Louis. He will speak on Red Cross responsibility in the changing community.

Robert B. Ridder of St. Paul, Minn., a member of the organization's national board of governors, will be the principal speaker at the conference banquet Friday evening. In 1960 Ridder accompanied General Alfred M. Gruenther, American Red Cross president, on a trip to Russia and Poland to study the Red Cross societies in those countries and to arrange for more active exchange of information.

The closing general session on Saturday will be addressed by Dr. Edward O. Moe, professor of sociology at Michigan State University.

"I feel sure that this book contains historical gems which many students of Missouri history may have overlooked," Blakeney added. "For example, I doubt that many know that Missourians, not known then as such, repulsed the British-led tribes at St. Louis twice in the Revolutionary War, that Missouri raised its own army for the War of 1812 and that it has a distinguished war record no other state can touch."

All-Conference Team Is Chosen

The Tri-County Conference, composed of schools in Moniteau, Morgan and Miller counties at the annual conference meeting recently elected their 1961 All-Conference team. The California Pintos dominated the All-Conference with five selections going to that school.

Camdenton placed four on the squad: Versailles, three; and Eldon, two. In the honorable mention, Osage, Tipton and California landed three boys; Versailles and Camdenton one each, while Eldon had two places.

Kenny Burlingame, California tackle, was a unanimous choice; as were two of his fellow team mates, Mike Moser, and Howard Christian, a halfback.

L. F. McDaniel, Camdenton, and Myron Scott of Eldon received the votes for a tackle position. Danny Foster, Camdenton and Mike Malchay of Eldon also received tie votes for center position.

The Tri-County league is fairly young as yet, but the past season saw some tough football played by its six members, California, the champions, Camdenton, Eldon, Tipton, Osage and Versailles.

Announcement of the All-Conference team was made by Vernon Harris, Versailles, the Tri-County secretary and treasurer.

La Rosa Wins Over Austin In Thriller

Guy La Rosa, took advantage of being "fenced in" and went all out to beat Buddy Austin, the killer, in the main event of the Tuesday night wrestling show. Those two last falls were short in time and quick to be made by the powerful La Rosa.

In the first fall, Austin succeeded in over-powering La Rosa using what he termed the "Atomic drop" to win in eight minutes and 50 seconds. La Rosa came back in the second period to apply the airplane spin, dropped Austin to the mat, smothered him for the fall in one minute and 34 seconds. The third fall was somewhat more exciting when Austin was flipped over the top rope and the chicken fencing to land on the floor outside the ring. Austin was unable to find his way in the ring in time to get the fall and was counted out after two minutes and 20 seconds.

Boards used in the corners to hold the fencing were jerked away, broken and at one time boards were swinging in the ring. Their effectiveness, however, was nil.

The tag-team match semi-final was rather exciting when two midwest teams with the girl wrestlers, Tiny Bell was the team mate of Judy Glover and Farmer McGrueder the mate of Dot Dotson.

Dotson won the first fall over Glover after they had been tagged into the ring by the midwests. Dotson used a series of body slams and press to win in 10 minutes and 23 seconds. The second fall went to Glover after four minutes and 11 seconds using a double arm bar and press. The third fall was won by Tiny Bell over the Farmer when he used the airplane spin and press. It was seven minutes and 56 seconds.

Stover Wins Two Contests Tuesday Nite

Stover's Bulldogs took two victories from Climax Springs Tuesday night in non-conference contests at Stover, with the varsity capping their contest 61-56, and the "B" team coming out on top 44-24.

Two Climax Springs hot-shots, England and Keltner, dumped in 22 points each as the visitors tried to follow up on their early first quarter lead over the Bulldogs.

Stover, however, came back with some consistent shooting in the remaining three quarters topping it off with a big 20-point surge in the final period, to scramble to high ground by the final buzzer.

A disastrous second period accounted primarily for Climax Springs loss. They managed to drop in only nine points in that period, and a matching effort in the fourth quarter could not bring them up to the level of the stubborn Dogs.

Coach Leroy Viebrock, new pilot for Stover after spending three years at the helm of the Green Ridge Tigers, is not too optimistic about Stover's future in the Tri-County conference this year. "We're in a tough conference," he said, "and Stover has won only a very few conference games in the last three years."

The Bulldogs, averaging five feet, ten inches in height, go up against the strong California Pintos next Tuesday in their first taste of conference play this year. They will be relying on such stalwarts as Ronnie Nolting, Kent Utegrove, Darrell Shackelford and Barry DeLong, who together worked out a 59-point total for Stover Tuesday night.

The Dogs have only three lettermen returning from last year in Nolting, Shackelford and DeLong.

In the "B" game, Stover met with little resistance from Climax Springs at any part of the game. At halftime they led 23-12, and built it up to 44-24 when the final buzzer sounded. Larry Viebrock led Stover's attack with 10 points, and Babbitt was high for Climax Springs with 12, good for scoring honors in the junior contest.

Score by quarters:
Stover, 12 12 17 20—61
Climax Springs, 13 9 14 20—56
Individual scoring: Stover—Ronnie Nolting, 16; Kent Utegrove, 14; Jim Goetz, 3; Darrell Shackelford, 13; Barry DeLong, 16. Climax Springs—Buell, 6; England, 22; Jackson, 3; Keltner, 22; Thomas, 3.

Annual Nelson Tourney Strong; Scoring Close

Competition in the 14th annual Nelson High School Invitational Basketball Tournament is strong this year with the scoring being close in all games, both the girls and boys contests.

Monday night in the girls division, Blackburn nosed out Lone Jack, 46-42, while in the second game of the evening Corder defeated Otterville 30 to 23.

In the boys division, Prairie Home, barely nosed out Blackburn 45-42, and in the second game Corder held to a slim lead to win by one point over Lone Jack, 49-48.

Tuesday night's session was no different than the opening game, all scores being extremely close except the Santa Fe-Nelson boys game.

In the boys division Santa Fe coasted to an easy victory over Nelson 63-41 while in the second game, Sweet Springs, seeded number one, was knocked from the tournament by Jamestown, 48-43.

The girls division saw Prairie Home, who was also seeded No. 1, knocked one of the host teams, Nelson, from their own tournament 43-36, and the Jamestown aggregation stopped Santa Fe, winning 40 to 13.

Green Ridge Uprising Costs Gremlins a Game

By PETE DANIELS

A second quarter Green Ridge uprising Tuesday night cost the Sacred Heart Gremlins a PBCAA Conference Tournament victory at Cole Camp. The Gremlins had company, however, when a close neighbor, Smithton's Tigers, also

College Grid Averages Going Down

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market averages keep going up and up. The college football forecasting averages keep going down and down. Will the twin ever meet? Last week's selections averaged .733 (44 correct, 16 wrong).

This week's picks:

Texas over Texas Christian; It is TCU's turn to stage another of the many upsets that dot this venerable series but the 1961 Longhorns are not that complacent.

Alabama over Georgia Tech; Tech has vowed to defeat every team that whipped the Engineers last year and that includes Alabama. It won't be a cakewalk but Alabama's defense is too rugged.

Ohio State over Oregon; Bob Ferguson will make the West Coast team wish it had declined the invitation to visit the Midwest.

Louisiana State over Mississippi State; Jerry Stovall and Wendell Harris hit with the best and will decide the issue.

Minnesota over Purdue; Sandy Stephens never fires that ball until he sees the white in the eyes of his receivers. Purdue already had engineered two upsets this season and that's enough for one year.

Mississippi over Tennessee; That defeat by LSU taught the Rebels you must play football to win in the SEC.

Pittsburgh over Southern California; Jim Traficant's passing will startle the Trojans.

Colorado over Nebraska; The Buffaloes, with their eyes on the Orange Bowl, will make amends for their startling loss to Utah.

Michigan State over Northwestern; The Spartan offense, led by six points in the last two outings, gets back into high gear with George Saines.

Syracuse over Notre Dame; The Orangemen have made this game a crusade. Ernie Davis breaks loose with a bang.

Missouri over Kansas State; With the Orange Bowl designation still open, the Missourians will turn loose all their power.

UCLA over Washington; Washington has been the Coast Conference champion for two years. This year it will be UCLA.

Maryland over Wake Forest; Norman Sneed will be missed by the Deacons while Gary Collins will star for Maryland.

Arkansas over Southern Methodist; The Porkers have skidded but still are strong enough to handle the Mustangs.

The others without comment:

Friday: Tulane over Vanderbilt (N). George Washington over Virginia Tech.

EAST: Army over Oklahoma, Boston College over Boston University, Rutgers over Colgate, Columbia over Pennsylvania, Dartmouth over Cornell, Harvard over Brown, Navy over Virginia, Penn State over Holy Cross, Princeton over Yale.

SOUTH: The Citadel over Arkansas State, Clemson over Furman, Duke over North Carolina, Florida State over Mississippi Southern, Auburn over Georgia, Kentucky over Xavier, North Carolina State over South Carolina, Indiana over West Virginia.

MIDWEST: Miami (Ohio) over Cincinnati, Wichita over Dayton, Houston over Oklahoma State, Iowa State over Tulsa, Wisconsin over Illinois.

SOUTHWEST: Baylor over Air Force, Louisville over North Texas State, Rice over Texas A&M.

FAR WEST: Arizona State over Detroit, Arizona over Texas Western, New Mexico over Colorado State University, Montana over Idaho, West Texas State over New Mexico State, Oregon State over Brigham Young, Kansas over California, Stanford over Washington State, Utah State over Utah.

In girls' contests, Green Ridge trounced Sacred Heart 34-20 on the 13-point serving of Pottoff. Janet Clein tried to offset the assault, serving seven perfect ones for Sacred Heart. Cole Camp's lady Bluebirds dropped Warsaw by the wayside, 36-17. Geraldine Denker served for 10 points, while Kingma and Flippin served four each for Warsaw.

The Gremlins got off to a good start in a game which saw lots of shooting and little actual defensive work. They edged Green Ridge by one point after the first quarter ended, but the Tigers, roaring disapproval, scooted 23 markers through the hoop in the second period, numbing the Gremlin hopes for victory.

Though they fell behind once more in per-quarter scoring, Green Ridge stayed well in control of the game after their big second quarter rout. Jim Friedebach, Leonard Butler and John Herring combined their efforts to score a total of 37 points for Sacred Heart, an effort easily outdone by two Tigermen, Durrill and Vannoy, who scored 40 between them.

Warsaw took an early lead in its contest with Smithton, getting a three-point edge in the first quarter. They kept the game on ice after that, partly due to Smithton's inability to find the range in the second and third quarters, when they scored only eight and six points respectively.

Another second quarter uprising, this one by Warsaw's Wildcats, was partly responsible for breaking the spirit of the Tigers. Warsaw dropped in 25 big points, holding Smithton down to eight.

Warsaw's Husong dropped in 24 points to lead the Wildcat offensive. His efforts were podded by the 12-point shooting of Sheperdson, and the 11-point performance of Simpson. Big guns for Smithton were DeMoss with 11, and Bass with 12 points.

Bob Moses Is Lineman Of the Week

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Moses is a nice looking 21-year-old whose play at end for the University of Texas football team has helped the Longhorns gain No. 1 national ranking in The Associated Press weekly poll.

Today he was named the Lineman of the Week by the AP for his outstanding performance last Saturday as Texas beat Baylor 33-7.

The 195-pound senior from Richmond, Tex., lived up to his reputation as a good received as well as able to make the big play defensively. He made an exceptional catch of a 20-yard forward pass for Texas' second touchdown. He did it while putting on a successful balancing act in the end zone to stay within bounds.

Moses, who prepped at Deerfield Academy in Massachusetts, also was outstanding on defense. Early in the third quarter he broke through and nailed Baylor's halfback, Kelly Roberts, behind the line. He tackled him so hard Roberts lost his hold on the ball and Texas recovered. He alternated in rushing the passer and dropping back to cover receivers.

High up in the voting by sports writers and broadcasters in the weekly AP poll were three tacklers, Don Brumm of Purdue, Don Vander Velden of Wisconsin and Foster Andersen of UCLA.

Purdue upset Michigan State 7-6 and it was Brumm who broke through and blocked MSU's conversion try. Vander Velden came through with a key tackle as Wisconsin beat Northwestern. Andersen played a standout offensive and defensive game as UCLA defeated Texas Christian.

Vander Velden, a 219-pound senior, prevented a Northwestern touchdown with his key tackle on the Wisconsin four in the fourth period. "It was the turning point of the game," said Wisconsin Coach Milt Bruhn.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—
Actress Mary Scott, 39, won a divorce from actor Sir Cedric
Hardwicke, 69, Tuesday, after testifying that he "didn't value

Lady Hardwicke contended that her husband insisted she and low ebb. But, she added, while the family stayed home, Sir Ced-

The couple was married in 1950
